Part III DETAILED ACTION

Notice to Applicant(s)

1. This application has been examined. Claims 1-19 are pending.

Double Patenting

2. Claims 1-24 are provisionally rejected under the judicially created doctrine of double patenting over claims 1-19 of copending Application No. 09/925,649. This is a provisional double patenting rejection since the conflicting claims have not yet been patented.

The subject matter claimed in the instant application is fully disclosed in the referenced copending application and would be covered by any patent granted on that copending application since the referenced copending application and the instant application are claiming common subject matter, as follows:

Receiving data at a printer; detecting a network address in the received data; requesting authorization to access the network (claims 10, 11, 12, 13 and 14 of Application 09/925,650); sending on the Internet or other network an access request for a document to the network address; retrieving the document from the network address and printing the document.

Furthermore, there is no apparent reason why applicant would be prevented from presenting claims corresponding to those of the instant application in the other copending application. See In re Schneller, 397 F.2d 350, 158 USPQ 210 (CCPA 1968). See also MPEP § 804.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 13, 14, 18, and 19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Tabata (U. S. 6,537,324) in view of Russell et al (Russell) (U. S. 6,375,078).

With respect to claims 1 and 6, Tabata discloses a printing method comprising receiving data at a printer (470B) (column 23, lines 56-63); detecting if a network address is in the received data (column 23, line 56 to column 24, line 17); sending on the Internet an access request for a document to the network address (column 24, lines 18-23); retrieving the document (column 24, lines 24-25), and printing the document (column 24, lines 36-38).

Tabata differs from claims 1 and 6 in that he does not clearly disclose requesting authorization to access the network address. Russell discloses a method for retrieving information from a network source wherein authorization for access to the network occurs by requiring the user to enter an access code (column 19, line 55 to column 20, line 6). Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to have modified Tabata wherein a user name or password is sent to the remote administration location.

Art Unit: 2626

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to have modified Tabata by the teaching of Russell in order to improve the security of the system.

With respect to claim 2, Tabata discloses the address is a URL (column 12, lines 43-47).

With regard to claims 3, 13, and 14, Tabata discloses detecting a barcode (column 6, lines 26-37).

With regard to claims 4 and 5, Tabata discloses printing the untranslated barcode (column 26, lines 32-46).

With respect to claims 7, 8, 9, and 10, Tabatha differs from claims 7, 8, 9, and 10 in that he does not clearly disclose sending authorization based on a criteria. Russell discloses restricting use of the network based on certain security functions (column 19, line 55 to column 16, line 6). Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to have modified Tabata to send authorization based on a criteria. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to have modified Tabata by the teaching of Russell in order to improve the security of the system.

With regard to claim 18, Russell discloses providing web content to a user location to display a menu of authorization selections (column 19, line 62 to column 20, line 6).

5. Claims 11 and 12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Tabata in view of Russell as applied to claim 1 above, and further in view of Wolff (U. S. 5,848,413).

Art Unit: 2626

With respect to claims 11 and 12, Tabata as modified differs from claims 11 and 12 in that he does not clearly disclose receiving E-mail containing the data. Wolff discloses a method for retrieving data from the Internet wherein the data is retrieved via E-mail (column 10, lines 37-48). Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to have modified Tabata as modified wherein the data is received by E-mail. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to have modified Tabata as modified by the teaching of Wolff in order to allow for simplified access to the Internet.

6. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

7. Claims 15, 16, and 17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Tabata in view of Russell as applied to claim 1 above, and further in view of Wolff.

With respect to claims 15, 16, and 17, Tabata as modified differs from claims 15, 16, and 17 in that he does not clearly disclose printing the document within another document and identifying the contents of the documents. Wolff discloses printing the document within another document and identifying the contents of the documents (column 6, lines 29-37 and lines 58-62). Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to have modified Tabata as modified to print the document within another document and identify the contents of the documents. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to have modified Tabata as modified by the teaching of Wolff in order to allow greater user control of the formatting of the retrieved documents.

8. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

U. S. Patent 5,873,077 is cited as it discloses a method for searching for and retrieving documents using a fax machine.

U. S. Patent 6,434,561 is cited as it discloses a method for accessing electronic resources via machine readable data on documents.
